We leave by National Road No 3 and then take a side route and after 75 km we stop to watch the “flag-trees”, those unbelievable trees bent by the strong Patagonian wind.

Later on we will prepare our inflatable canoes and will start rowing down the meandrous Lashifashaj River, a smooth and relaxing stream. We will watch the “Fuegino” forest on the shores of the river and hundreds of birds will be flying throughout the route. The arrival to the Beagle Channel is impressive, the sky is enormous and the sea seems endless. We will get close to an island inhabited by rocky cormorants, and sometimes seals and we will continue rowing up to the “Estancia Harberton”. We visit the manor house of the Estancia, the first farm in Tierra del Fuego. Its history and its architecture will transport us to ancient times.

We will then board an inflatable semi-rigid hull boat with room for 15 people and will navigate the Beagle Channel up to the Gable Island, the biggest and most beautiful uninhabited Island in the Beagle. After a 3 hours hike with many “unforgettable” views of the Beagle Channel through the amazing topographic and environmental variety of Gable Island, we will board the boat once again in order to visit one of the most beautiful places in Tierra del Fuego: the Martillo Island (Hammer), the only island with penguin population in the Beagle. We will stop the boat in a sand bank and will be surrounded by hundreds of Magellanic Penguins and several couples of other bigger specie called “Gentoo penguin“. Close to Martillo Island we will see flying around thousands of petrels, Skuas, cormorants, terns and albatrosses, you will see them flying off beside the boat.

Then we will get back to Harberton once again and start our return trip to Ushuaia.
